The image shows a fragment of an ancient Egyptian papyrus scroll. The text is written in hieroglyphs, organized into approximately 12 vertical columns. The characters are black on a light, textured background. Several characters and groups of characters are crossed out with diagonal lines, suggesting corrections or deletions. The scroll is heavily textured, likely due to the papyrus material, and shows signs of wear, including some fraying and discoloration. The overall appearance is that of an archaeological find, possibly a fragment of a larger document.

Fragment of an ancient Egyptian papyrus scroll with hieroglyphic text. The text is arranged in approximately 20 horizontal lines, though many are partially obscured by the fragment's irregular edges and internal tears. The hieroglyphs are densely packed and appear to be in a standard cursive script. The fragment is dark and shows significant wear and tear, particularly along the right edge and in the center.

Berl. P. 9784, Zeile 1-19.

Hieroglyphic text on a papyrus fragment, consisting of seven lines of characters. The script is a form of ancient Egyptian hieroglyphs, likely used for administrative or legal records.
